DESIGN INSPIRATION

Marimekko's Mini Unikko fabric features the iconic floral pattern by Maija Isola in classic shades of red and pink on white. The fabric is made of 100% cotton and has been printed in Helsinki, Finland. The cotton fabric is ideal for making a custom tablecloth or curtains.

The Unikko pattern came about in 1964 after Armi Ratia, the founder of Marimekko, had announced in public that no floral fabrics are designed at Marimekko. Maija Isola did not accept rules or restrictions and designed in protest a complete collection of bold floral patterns. Today, Unikko is one of Marimekko's best-known patterns and is recognized around the world.
